

BREAHT

The water was really cold and the wet clothes pulled him to the dark and frozen deep.

The seconds became minutes and the minutes Steel in his lungs. His heart pumped tons of blod towards his temples and his head was near of an explosi3n.

Now, the wish of heathe was uncountr3lable but he knew that the german soldiers were still close to the riber bank.

MY BROTHER DON`T TRUST ME ANYMORE!

When I was young my brother and I went hiking to the mountain.

I had already gone with the school and I was convinced that I knew the way, so our adventure began.

The ascent went well; after all, it's all up. When it was time to descend, everything got complicated, a dense fog began to fall and logically we got lost.

Years later I am still waiting for my brother to go down.

The background of the page is a faint, artistic illustration of a window. The window has a dark frame and is divided into several panes. Outside the window, there is a flower box filled with various flowers, including white and yellow blooms. The overall style is soft and painterly.

WOW

Early hours of each night. Time to go to bed, I send a goodnight message to my other-half and turn off the computer.

An Absolute silence, but I felt something different that night, my whole body was cold and a strange sensation came over me.

The walk to my room was very long and when I finally arrived, the cold developed into a shiver and a shadow kept moving

I turned on the light... and WOW, the window was open

Tic, tac...

Jack woke up suddenly.

There is a body lying on the ground. Jack is fully covered with blood.

Now in the streets, everyone is running after him out of the blue. He must run if he wants to survive. An open door. He starts going upstairs. He finds himself on the roof with a huge crowd behind him. Time to jump to the closest building. He jumps but he couldn't reach the building. Aaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaahh.

Jack was dreaming.

Reality or fiction?

So much dragons were that we had seen that day in the sky What having dreamed in such a quantity of time it's already a reality. Unfortunately only the girl wich i started to see some days ago and i see them.

Is already the sixth we left from the White Castle another time because of the dragons and of course, the dragons burned the forest again.

Title: A new environment, a new life.

Shortly after completing fourteen years, Elizabeth leaves England to now settle in Spain, and this is due to the work of her father who is an English philologist.

At the beginning she had several culture shocks and problems to enter this new culture.

But after making new friends and meeting people her age, and liking her own hobbies, such as reading, watching old movies, and writing, she begins to fall in love with the locals.

Although the biggest difficulty for her at first was the language, with a couple of classes, and practicing with the locals, her level is very good.

WAS I DREAMING?

I would have never thought that I'd be hunted by gigantic spiders. Yet here I am! I was only trying to take the coolest selfie at the peak of the mountain when I spotted the spiders. Should I say that I am extremely afraid of them? Anyway, I decided to start running like greased lightning. Once I reached the river, I jumped and began swimming. That's when I considered if it was real, so I stopped.
